

Radiation Test

"Spooky everyday in October"

Considering all the phenomenon I've been picking up I went ahead and got a detector. This is the highest value I've captured in the living room. The bedroom has been reading about 0.15. Is it normal or not for these low levels measured, I'm not sure. For everyone that knows I like MJ the value is "GOD's Plan". Little more for the reader it's full transparency standard "If they talking about playing ball they can take it up with Jordan."
