

Some More Evidence

The apartment above seems to be involved in this as well I would check the date they filed to move in how it matches with mine. They seem to have an idea of where I am in the apartment and what I'm doing.

When I first moved in the Dolphins were playing the Panthers that week while watching the game De'Von Achane had a nice run for a touchdown at the end thought to be the game winning play. When I watched it live I started clapping thinking the game was won. Later the play was called back because he stepped out on the run.

The next night the Houston Texans were playing Tampa Bay Bucs. During that game the Texans had a player, don't recall the name have a big play similar to the Dolphins at the end. After this play the apartment above started clapping just like I did which I thought that is interesting at the time. Since then he does this right when I go to sleep like he knows the exact time.

Below is a link to video that can be time stamped verified as is with everything I have shared of me placing my phone to record when I turn off the TV for Bed last night.

Pay attention from 1:55 to 2:10

Pay attention from 7:00 to 7:15

On Sept 9 from 8:35am to 9:39 I had a call with Verizon regarding the VoIP phone calls and if there was something that could be done to block them. Shortly after starting this conversation with them a very loud drill started going off in the apartment above making the conversation difficult to have. Which stopped and I could no longer hear after. Verizon made it clear to me if Law Enforcement calls they will provide the recording.

I also have recording I can provide of me working and noises that happen routinely while I'm working that seem directly above my desk.

With the apartment next to me this is something that is difficult to explain I posted the ring camera in the other document all that can be verified what I showed there occurred between Sept 21-25 but you give me a day and I can likely pull & show behaviors that don't look right.

Ontop of that is the wall my degree is computer engineering you can ask an electrician this does not make a whole lot of sense.

There are videos I have already posted of the measurements off his wall this one below was taken shortly before that watch how the emission is really high and suddenly drops to near zero to me it's like they knew it was being taken and turned it off.

After I posted the community note the next day the emissions is still coming from the wall these are the videos that I took Oct 2. It can be detected coming from all over the wall but at a lower energy emission likely they are trying to run the device at a lower power. Again this is not normal and I've measured my other neighbors wall repeatedly and it's always zero.

The video below is the JBL Buzz (Note) this is really abnormal the sound it is playing is it's own internal programming not bluetooth. JBL have a bigger amplifier than general speakers what seems to be happening is it's picking up some sort of vibration in the air could be ultrasonic. My back is also tingling in line with when the speaker started to experience this.

Speaker Buzz:

Recap Here

- The Speaker is doing something it shouldn't
- The wall is doing something it shouldn't
- My back is tingling in line with all this

(Also Note) The difference between the power emissions before the community note it was clear the very strong power emissions from the wall were coming from two areas in line with where my desk is placed. And in line with where my bed is. Verified in first video.

Boca PD please do your job and figure out who is responsible for this at this point I'm certain this no longer falls under a violation of Boca law but really is a huge violation of Federal Law. If you go to the apartment above and next to me and ask the right questions I'll take my guess it won't make sense.

There is a case number for this already 177054 one thing I found interesting if you play the officers body cam footage you might see it. That pattern of revving while I was trying to document this there. I believe was a orange lamborghini that drove by the police station giving that subtle rev of super cars that I hear. Now I ask who would rev an engine in front of a police station? Could be nothing or could be something.

I pay Boca's taxes too.
